Things to Do in Bustos

Bustos Heritage Park

Bustos did a great job in maintaining some of their heritages, so if you are a big fan of vintage, or you just want to take a quick trip down to History Lane while you're in the area, this place is perfect for you. If you also want to get a taste of the town's delicacies, you can buy Bustos' take on Bicho-bicho (fried bread roll stuffed with cheese, sprinkled with sugar and powdered milk), Minasa (cookie made out of cassava flour is similar to Uraro), lengua de gato (a milk-based cookie); and barquillos, which are rolled-up sweet wafers.

Angat Afterbay Regulator Dam

Bustos Dam also known as Angat Afterbay Regulator Dam is a small irrigation dam at Bustos, Bulacan is often mistaken by the locals as Angat Dam since it is located close to the nearby town of Angat. This is Asia's second largest rubber dam. There is a mini park in the premises which is cool and shady, with lots of trees where locals usually hang out.

Bahay at Yaman ni San Martin De Porres Retreat Center.

If you're looking for some peace and quiet outside the metro, then head here. This sprawling retreat center not only features several Ivatan houses that solitude-seekers can rent. It also serves as an orphanage, housing for children of different ages that were rescued from the streets of Manila.
